

ESSENTIALS OF QUALITATIVE RESEARCH COURSE SERIES

MASTER'S STUDENT PATHWAYS

For Master's students wishing to increase their knowledge and skills in critical qualitative health research, there are a variety of trajectories through the CQ curriculum, depending on their experience and academic background. Below are some suggested pathways. For more information about the EQR course series, including course descriptions, go to <http://www.ccqhr.utoronto.ca/education/about-course-series/>

Pathway 1

For those looking for an introduction to qualitative research, below is a list of potential courses. For those looking for more training in qualitative health research and/or preparing for a PhD program, refer to Pathway 2.

PHM 1137 or

EXS 5510 or

CHL 5221

Pathway 2

For those who have prior experience with qualitative research and are doing a master's thesis, or preparing to conduct qualitative research in a PhD program, below are potential pathways.

PHM 1137 or

EXS 5510 or

CHL 5221

JRP 1000 or

SWK 4512